Galeon's entry level model dubbed the 300 FLY joined the third generation lineup in the late spring of 2014. This compact sized flybridge was designed from scratch to offer great handling and stability in all weather conditions. Both the hull and deck are made using the infusion technology which helps in minimizing the weight, enhancing the craft's performance and fuel consumption.

The dynamic exterior clearly follows the design trend outlined by the third generation of Galeon Yachts range with its broad windows and edgy features. The top deck is easily accessed by the built in, wide steps and features a steering station with a convertible bench that extends the large sundeck area even further.
